Loneliness

Two kinds of loneliness

1. Temporary loneliness:

When the people move to a new place and separated from their friends and family.

2. Chronic loneliness:

May last for months or years.

Chronic loneliness

- The lonely do not lack social skills, though they somehow fail to use them as much as others(they can get along well with others but they don't;Cacioppo&Hawkley,2005)
- The main deficiency that has been established is that lonely people are poorer at figuring out other people's emotional states(Pickett & Gardner, 2005)
